Introduction

Gain a deep understanding of what makes the difference between strategic success and failure, so you can increase your personal effectiveness in your organisation. This powerful new programme offers an overview and introduction to strategic thinking for those who are not directly involved in strategy formation, but want to expand their perspective and understanding of how strategy impacts their work life and the success of their company. It is designed to provide a perspective and vocabulary about strategy that enables the participant to constructively support the strategic direction of the firm. In this programme you will learn how to:

- Better communicate with the leadership of your organisation
- Understand your job in the broader context of strategy implementation for the firm
- Understand the interactions between your organisation and the environment in which it operates
- Recognise strategic moves of competitors and industry patterns that influence strategy success

- Provide a Strategy Vocabulary that Enables you to “Talk the Talk” with a Manager or Executive of your firm
- Expand your understanding of how Strategic Thinking has developed and evolved over the past forty years
- Develop your appreciation of Strategy Formation and Implementation within your organisation
- Link the Strategy of a firm with the Desired Outcomes of either Return on Invested Capital, or delivery of Best Value, through Value Creation and Market Focus
- Link your Daily Activities to Your Strategic Direction so that you can locate yourself in the Strategic Process of your own firm
- Recognise factors that induce change in strategy and what change might mean to your firm
- Expand your ability to ask strategic questions and contribute to the Strategy Formation of your organisation
